With the happy condolences that it had again won a fight in a good cause, 'The Evening World' received news

yesterday of the defeat in the State Senate of the bill removing civil service restrictions from medical appointments in the cities.

NEWSPAPER SENSATIONALISM.

Occasionally attacks are made on the newspapers for their alleged "sensationalism." Under this title is classified every exposure of suspicious circumstances surrounding an event seeming to indicate the commission of a crime. The more enterprising, watchful and fearless a newspaper is, the more liable it is to be called "sensational."

A witness in the Buchanan murder trial, testified yesterday that after Mrs. Buchanan had been nearly a month in her grave Buchanan returned to New York from a trip to Nova Scotia. The next morning the doctor visited the witness in his bedroom, holding a copy of "The World" in his hand, and exclaimed: "Look here, Dick, this 'World' says that I have remarried my former wife, and that I poisoned my wife, the old woman, to death. What would you do?"

This was "sensationalism!" But it resulted in a conference between Buchanan and his lawyers, the result of which was an agreement that if the next morning's paper contained any reference to the case, the doctor should at once leave the country. A copy of "The World" was secured "as it came from the press," which means about 1 o'clock in the morning, and as there was no article concerning the case, Buchanan thought that the matter had been dropped, and did not run away.

The "sensationalism" of the press thus robbed the grave of its secret, and placed Dr. Buchanan where he is now, at the bar of a criminal court, to answer for an alleged crime. The "sensationalism" of "The World" moreover, brought about Charles Harris's trial and conviction, and lodged him in Sing Sing under sentence of death. The grave had hidden the crimes. The "sensationalism" of a newspaper had opened the graves and revealed the murder.

Is not such sensationalism in the interest of justice and of the public safety?

BY THE LOSER'S ORDERS.

There is quite an exciting little family breeze in the Legislature. Mr. Richard Croker's resolution of final adjournment on April 15th was pushed through the Assembly yesterday by Speaker Sulzer as soon as orders were received, before the members knew what they had voted on. But it seems that the Senate, for some reason, has not had its instructions, and when the resolution came from the Assembly, Lieut.-Gov. Sheehan was highly incensed and declared it "an act of pronounced discourtesy" not to notify the Senate beforehand. In vain Clerk De Forest, of the Assembly, sought to pacify Mr. Sheehan by talking of Mr. Croker's orders. The incensed presiding officer refused to listen, and set to work to compass the rejection of the resolution.

The result will probably be the defeat of the resolution in the Senate, and no adjournment on the day announced by Mr. Croker. Lieut.-Gov. Sheehan is, however, very responsive to the lash of the whip, and it is possible that he may be taken in hand by Mr. Croker, and that the boss's orders may yet be obeyed.

A NEWSPAPER CHARGE.

The New York Times is said to have been purchased by a syndicate, the former owners having sold out the newspaper, its franchises and plant, while retaining the building. It is announced unofficially that the paper will be continued on its present line of policy and will remain in its present location. The editorial staff will be unchanged. If the names of the principal stockholders of the new concern are correctly given, it is evident that the venture has more to do with business than with politics. The only member of the syndicate associated actively with political parties is Gov. Flower. In one direction only is a change foreshadowed. Hereafter the Times has been regarded as especially the organ of ex-Mayor Grace. As Mr. Charles R. Flint is named as the head of the syndicate, it will not be so regarded in the future.

The Times is a well-established and well-conducted newspaper, and the new ownership has our best wishes for its success.

A TRIFLE TOO LIBERAL.

The profile Plunkitt is at it again. This time he introduces a bill in the State Senate to pay the New York Aldermen an additional one thousand dollars a year salary each. At present they are paid two thousand dollars a year for the little service they render, and as many of them would find it difficult to earn one hundred and sixty dollars a month at any business that would occupy their whole time, it is considered a generous compensation.

Of course, the liberal Senator would like to put thirty thousand dollars a year spending money in the pockets of our thirty Aldermen, especially as they are all Tammany Democrats. But the city is pretty well burdened with expenses just now, and the taxpayers are entitled to some little consideration. All public officers ought to be paid a fair remuneration for their services, but no one will deny that two thousand dollars a year is a good salary for an Alderman, and quite as much as he earns. Senator Plunkitt's bill ought to be beaten. It doubtless will be.

Already two cases of suspicious illness are reported among immigrants bound for this country. The time for dietary tactics is now past, if there ever was such a time. Spring, with its unknown quantity of peril from cholera, is at hand. The putting in force of every reasonable precautionary measure against the pest is imperatively demanded.

The last of the full Generals who took part on either side in the "little war" died yesterday. He was E. Kirby Smith, once of the Confederacy. General Kirby's death between sections prepared him by far in death. So he lived to see General Fellowship in command of a united country's forces.

After an aeroplane had fallen from his trajectory in a local theatre last night, the manager of the theatre was arrested for not having a net under the bar, as the law prescribes. How suggestive of the old saw about locking the stable-door after the horse was stolen.

An extra session of Congress is proposed for September. That is not long to wait, if the people may then truly expect the relief from tariff burdens which they have chartered the law-makers to give them.

Japan is said to be more than willing to take Hawaii. With "all things Japanese" the islands in the Pacific might be happier and get more tea for their sugar than under the rule of Columbia.

The flat-house air shafts are getting in great work, these days, in their capacity of flame conductors. Builders should be compelled to alleviate them with material as nearly fireproof as may be.

New York's new City Hall should be a monument to the city's higher progress. Why so build it as to grotesquely shelter, with awkward wings, that court-house monument to Tweedism?

Dr. Buchanan has furnished his prosecutors with a great deal of material out of his own mouth, according to witnesses already called.

WORLDINGS.

Statistics of mortality in the South show that the death rate is colored to one out of every five hundred, while in the North it is one out of every three hundred. People who have any fear of snake bite are informed that a little permanent of polish injected into the wound by a hypodermic syringe is an infallible antidote.

Forty years ago boxes were worth $1 a pound. The supply was increased and the price diminished by the discovery of vast quantities of it in "Leath Valley."

Her Make-Up.

(From Texas Sitings.)
First Club Man—When is young Vanderclimb going to get married to Miss Kinkicker?

Second Club Man—There is no telling. They have had a falling out, and it may take them some time to make up.

Well, if it takes him as long to make up as it does her, they will not be married for several years.

What makes you think so?
Well, you best listen to my address to that Kinkicker fellow, and whenever I utter one and wait for her while she made up it seemed to me a small eternity.

Matrimonial.

(From Texas Sitings.)
Mrs. Candid Talker, a fashionable lady living on Madison square, New York, called on a lady friend and found her petting one of those pug dogs.

What did you get that animal? asked Mrs. Candid.

My husband gave it to me to remember him by when he was away travelling.

What a stupid, daisy looking brute he is!

Art Note.

(From Texas Sitings.)
Artist—What do you say to my new picture?

Critic—I am not going to say anything to it unless it says something to me.

A Work of Science.

(From Vogue.)
He—Her complexion is simply superb. I admire it immensely.
She—It did not know that you were interested in complexion.

In the Front Row.

(From Vogue.)
Chapple—Say, Harry, look at that chorus girl smiling at us. I wonder which of us is this honored.

Harry—It is probably I—she used to be my old nurse.

His Last Request.

(From Judge.)
"John," said the dying poet's wife, "have you any last request to make?"

"Yes, I have," said the poet fervently, "don't let them write my epitaph in hexameters. I never could abide hexameters."

What, Indeed?

Hunker—Do you propose to marry, Spats?
Spats—Well, what other object would I have in proposing?

TYPHUS IN MADISON AVENUE.

Wife of a Wealthy Importer Has the Dread Disease.

It is thought she contracted the Fever in Mexico.

Mrs. Adeline Townsend, who recently returned to this city from a trip to Mexico, is ill at her home, 27 Madison avenue, with what her physicians, Dr. W. C. Wells and A. L. Loomis, say is genuine typhus fever.

Her husband is R. H. L. Townsend, the wealthy importer, and she is well known for her gifts to Bellevue Hospital and other charitable institutions. The room in which she is lying is isolated from the rest of the house and is attended by two trained nurses. Her husband, who is a member of the Board of Health, has been ordered to remain in the house, and the rules of the Department have been strictly enforced.

Dr. Townsend is attending to the house, and is not allowed to leave the house. The house is kept carefully fumigated. It is reported today that Mrs. Townsend has passed the crisis of the disease, and is now on the way to recovery. She is thought to have contracted the disease in Mexico, and is the first instance on record where a typhus patient has been treated at home in this city. Since the existing health laws were introduced, the nurses attending the patient have not been allowed to leave the house since they began to take care of her.

FIFTY PEOPLE HOMELESS.

Destructive Fire in a Harlem Apartment-House.

Over fifty people are homeless on account of the fire yesterday afternoon in the double apartment-house at 16 West One Hundred and Third street. All the contents of the ten six-room flats in the building were destroyed, and two top flats of the adjoining building, No. 102, were also destroyed. Many of the tenants of the burned flats had narrow escapes from losing their lives by fire and smoke. Quite a number of them got out of the building with only their wearing apparel.

It is supposed that the fire originated in the kitchen of one of the flats, and that the fire spread to the other flats. The fire was extinguished by the fire department, and the damage is estimated at $30,000.

CITY CREDITORS IMPATIENT.

Columbian Committee Slow in Settling Bills.

The creditors of the Columbian Committee of One Hundred are impatient for their money. A bill was passed by the Legislature authorizing the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to make up the deficiency of $20,000 in the funds of the Committee of One Hundred. The Board of Estimate recently referred the bill to the Finance Committee, and the Finance Committee has not yet reported on it. The creditors are impatient for their money, and are threatening to sue the Committee of One Hundred.

Whitening Lotion.

Fauntie—A whitening lotion, that is also a tonic, is made of the following ingredients: Tincture of camphor, one ounce; tincture of benzoin, half an ounce; cologne water, two ounces. The mixture may be used in an ordinary bath, but a little of it in the water used for the face, neck and hands, will soften and whiten the skin wonderfully.

Menu for a Children's Party.

A suitable menu for a children's party is as follows:
Cold Chicken (Sliced).
Bread and Butter Sauce. Lettuce.
Custard.
Orange Juice.
Fruit.

Serving Apples.

Wash and core a suitable number of sweet or sour apples of good flavor, and equal size, set them upon the bottom of a pan, fill the hollow in each apple with sugar, pour into the pan enough water to reach one-third the depth of the apples, and bake. If they cook too long they will lose their shape; therefore they must be carefully watched. No rule can be given as to time, because some apples require more baking than others. When the apples can be easily pierced with a broom splin, remove them carefully to the serving dish, and pour the juice over them. When they are cool, spread about them a coffee-cupful of whipped and sugared cream or stiffly beaten and sweetened whites of eggs, allowing three whites to eight apples. Lemon may be added to the meringue, if desired, but many cooks prefer the flavor of the apples. This simple but delicious dessert is to be eaten with cake.

Blackheads.

Mrs. F. R.—To remove blackheads dabble 95 per cent. alcohol on the skin with a wet linen rag.

Boiled Apple Pudding.

Butter a pudding mould and line it with thin, evenly buttered slices of wheat bread; pour the bread arrange a layer of thinly sliced good sour apples and sprinkle them lightly with cinnamon or allspice. Add another layer of buttered bread and another of apples and spice, and so continue until the mould is full, apples being placed on top. For a quart mould, melt a cupful of sugar in a couple of hot water, turn the sugar over the pudding, cover closely and steam or boil for two hours. Then turn the pudding out and serve hot with hard or liquid sauce.

Whisk-Broom Holder.

The front and back sections are disks of pasteboard, covered with light china silk. Upon the front is painted a pretty marine view.

A New Idea.

(From Texas Sitings.)
Stranger (from Dakota)—I hear you are making mustard plasters by the yard, always ready for use.

Stranger—Yes, sir. Would you like to try one?

Stranger—Not now; but if you'll warrant me good and hot you can send me about forty yards by express to Bismarck, Dak. Winter is here and wood is too high for your folks.

A Strategist.

(From Texas Sitings.)
Bill Collector—Is your father at home?
Young Lady—No, he is out of town and will not be back for a week.

That's a pity. I wanted to see him to ask for your hand in marriage.

Bill Collector—The lady will wait until the parlor; he will be down in a minute.

Fashions for the House.

The infant's dress here shown is a damask, suggested by the Delectable. The full skirt is of regulation length and is gathered at the top and sewed to the body, which is shaped by shoulder and under-arm seams and closed at the centre of the back with buttonholes and buttons. A shaped facing of the material, adjusted in hemstitching, is arranged upon the front. Its edges are outlined with tiny bands and frills of embroidered edging, and a rosette formed of edging decorates the lower edge of the body at each side of the V.

New Paper Pocket.

A pretty paper pocket may be constructed by using an ordinary wire toaster, which may be painted with liquid gold. Wide ribbon in two shades of green may be passed in and out between the wires, each strip of ribbon being in one continuous piece all round, thus forming the sides. A ribbon bow may be fastened on one continuous piece all round, thus forming the sides. A ribbon bow may be fastened on one continuous piece all round, thus forming the sides. Toilet Soap.

Mrs. D. C.—An excellent glycerine toilet soap may be made in the following manner: Glycerine, three ounces; pure lard, three ounces; perfume, three ounces; pure glycerine, two ounces; essence of vanilla, five drops. The ingredients in a saucepan and beat them gently, stirring all the time, and when the mass is nearly cool, shape it into balls.

Housecleaning Hints.

To clean polished furniture take 1 oz. white wax, 3 oz. of kerosene, 1 oz. of turpentine, 1 pint of turpentine, 1 pint of water, first boiled and then allowed to get cold.

Marble may most effectively be cleaned with a 4 oz. of very finely powdered pumice-stone, added to 1 lb. of powdered soda, with a little of the soda dissolved in water, mixed to a paste with water, and rubbed into the stone, and afterwards washed with soap and water.

Apple Sherbet.

To a quart of cold stewed and strained sour apples add a syrup formed by boiling two pounds of sugar with a cupful of hot water and then allowing the liquid to cool. Squeeze the juice of three lemons, beat the preparation light and fresh. Well-flavored apples are best for this purpose.

The Future Queen of England.

The Princess of Wales spends a great deal of time in the open air, but she does not take any exercise. She is a very delicate person, and she is very fond of driving, goes coaching, yachting and sleighing in season, but never walks in public, owing to a slight lameness, about which she is said to be very sensitive. She has a small supply of back hair, her hearing is so defective as to be the source of much embarrassment, and she has an ugly scar on her neck that has kept the dog-collar necktie in style for nearly a quarter of a century. It is said in the beauty shops of the Rue de la Paix that it takes three hours to make her up and four wigs a week to keep her head dressed. Her face is as delicately tinted as a miniature portrait, and she is very fond of jewelry. Her hair is very dark, and she is very fond of jewelry. To Clean a Sheepskin Rug.

Make a very strong lather by boiling soap in a little water and mix it with as much lukewarm water as will be needed to wash the rug. Rub the soap into the rug thoroughly in the above preparation. Then take a second and third lather in the same way, with increasing force in each. Rinse it well in cold water to remove all the soap, and then place it in water containing enough blue to keep the wool from turning yellow. Wring the rug thoroughly, shake it carefully and hang it in the open air, with the skin towards the sun, out until the heat is so strong that it would harden the skin. The rug must be shaken frequently while drying to prevent it becoming stiff and cracking, and should be hung first by one end and then by the other until it is thoroughly dry.

Theatre Halls of Old.

In the reign of Louis XVI. the hats of the ladies were two feet high and one wide.

Photographs in Tea Cups.

The Princess of Wales has the portraits of her family and near relatives photographed upon cups and saucers of the most delicate china. The photographs are done in oil colors. This royal fancy has become the fashion, and portraits look out from all china mugs, cups, teapots, &c. Apropos of this fact was the gift of several young ladies to a popular society man, an amateur artist. He has a sumptuous studio in London, where he entertains his guests in the most luxurious style. He has a large collection of portraits of the most famous people in the world, and he is very fond of painting. Children Are All Right, But—

We love children, but we don't want their prattles, their ways, their sayings and their active little bodies always either in our ears or before our eyes. The parents may think that the company of their own particular favorites is all that is needed for in this world, and for them it may be the height of happiness, but if they really want to keep their friends they must not surfeit them with too much of the children.

For a Busy Woman.

A pretty present for a busy woman is a white satin, framed in gold, with a pencil suspended to it. This device is very useful, and can be used in many ways. It is a very useful device, and can be used in many ways. It is a very useful device, and can be used in many ways.

The Tomato.

The tomato is a native of South America. It was taken to Europe early in the sixteenth century. The spelling of the word with a final o seems to be an English spelling. The French and Spanish have "tomate," from Mexican "tomatl." Its short name is Lycopersicon esculentum. It was formerly supposed to possess the power of exciting the passions, hence the name "Love apple."

Shoulder Brackets and Crab Quills.

Shoulder brackets for children are made of soft, white baby blanket or cashmere, either hand-embroidered, or edged with button-hole scalloons with three rows of half-inch wide mure ribbon above them, or finished with a hem two inches wide, headed with a band of satin ribbon the same width as the hem.

Cutting Bees.

The following recipe makes a most refreshing drink. Intense caloric cold water throw two generous handfuls of hops and boil until the water is well colored and the hops sink to the bottom. Strain through a bag, add half a gallon of syrup, and allow the liquid to cool, and when it is just milk-warm, stir in a dissolved yeast cake, and let the beer ferment overnight. Pour it into jugs or bottles, and permit it to ferment another night. Then
